

VOLUME LXXIX.—NO. 72.

WHO WILL GUESS THE NUMBER? COMMENTING TO-DAY, MAY 19th.

Mayor Comstock has selected a number out of from 1 to 500, and the same has been placed in a sealed envelope. We have a book in which we have written down 500 numbers; and any lady or gentleman who buys from $1 and upwards of MILLINERY will be entitled to register their name opposite any one of these numbers; and the one who registers the number that corresponds with the Mayor's number will be presented with a FINE GUITAR and CASE, valued at $75. When these numbers are filled out, the Mayor will announce his number above his signature in this column.

For To-day

MANY OF THE BARGAINS ANNOUNCED ON SATURDAY A PORTION REMAINS.

This applies more particularly to the French FLOWERS and SPRAYS, of which there was such a quantity, and GARNERS FINE SATENS, from 25 cents to 125 cents per yard.

IT'S A FAIR!

GOOD SCORES.

Pacific Sportsmen Make Them at the Traps.

Yesterdays several members of the Pacific Sportsmen Club and invited guests accepted an invitation from Charles E. Mack and assembled at the latter's farm on the Lower Stockton road, where they passed a very enjoyable day before the traps, shooting live pigeons and inanimate blue-rock targets. The weather was favorable, except that a thick breeze arose about noon that made the shooting of live birds somewhat difficult. The birds were a strong lot. Following are the scores, made at thirty yards range:

GRUBER..... 11111-6
RUBINSTEIN..... 11111-6
WILSON..... 11111-6
DUNN..... 11111-6
GEORGE..... 11111-6
CHAPMAN..... 11111-6
MADISON..... 11111-6
ACKERMAN..... 11111-6
TALLMAN..... 11111-6
HAMILTON..... 11111-6

At the conclusion of the live-bird contest the following scores were made: single blue-rock, fifteen yards: Gruber, 3; George, 3; Ackerman, 3; Madison, 3; Chapman, 3; Rubinstein, 3; Dunne, 3; Tallman, 3; Hamilton, 3; Wilson, 3.

At three pairs of doubles, fifteen yards: Gruber, 3; George, 3; Ackerman, 3; Madison, 3; Chapman, 3; Rubinstein, 3; Dunne, 3; Tallman, 3; Hamilton, 3; Wilson, 3.

APPEARANCE OF BUSINESS STREETS.

A correspondent, a former resident of California, was permitted to state his views freely in this journal yesterday, concerning the domestic policy of this city, and to advance his reasons for believing that there is not here manifest that public spirit that should distinguish a growing and prosperous community. Our correspondent takes a somewhat too ultra view of the matter. The truth is, that while the community is very slow, unreasonably so, in making modern improvements, it is not wanting in advancement. Its people are prosperous and the commercial importance of the place has not diminished.

Nevertheless, the reasons are made by the correspondent that are, and should command our attention. The chief of these is one that has been frequently but not too much referred to—that is, the unbusinesslike appearance of the business streets. It is true that in most respects we adhere to old and primitive styles in the architecture on the business streets, for no apparent reason than that the style is indicative of the pioneer and formative era that in the initial efforts to found here a city, testified to a want of faith in its permanency. But while that frontier and camp-like period has departed and permanence and prosperity have succeeded, we have not put by the raiment of the mining camp and the backwoods. In nothing is this more conspicuous than in the "awning" system, that leech-like clings to us and is the source of endless uncomplimentary remark by visitors. Familiarity with the continuance of the primitive system has bred in us indifference to its offensive character in the eyes of strangers, and for that reason it is necessary that there should be inaugurated work reform in the nature of a crusade to work reform in the matter. It has been held that the post-awning is, in a warm climate, a necessary more than a convenience, and that in the rainy season it is a positive advantage.

But a little examination will dispel this delusion. In cities and towns where a higher temperature prevails and for a longer period, the post-awnings have been superceded by more graceful, less expensive and more useful and comfortable devices.

The permanent over-hanging awning of iron or wood that has here and there supplanted the old style was a decided and most agreeable improvement, but not even that costly structure is needed. It is a hindrance and a positive danger in the case of conflagrations. It is incapable of sustaining much weight and is therefore useless to firemen. It serves, as do the old post-awnings, in case of fire, to create a draught that facilitates communication

STATE DIVISION.

REASONS WHY CALIFORNIA SHOULD

NOT BE DIVIDED.

Arguments Which Should Convince Any

Thinking Man of the Folly of the Proposition.

Some weeks ago the Chino Valley Cham- pion, published by John Watson at Chino,

San Bernardino county, contained an articulation which put several pointed questions to Wm. H. Mills, Vice-President of the State Board of Trade, relative to his views on the question of the division of the State.

Mr. Mills replied in a letter which is printed in the Champion of May 10th, and which ought to convince any reasonable man that there is absolutely no reason why the State should be divided and that the present agitation is injurious, injudicious and unwise. Mr. Mills says:

The suggestion at first was hardly regarded as serious by the great mass of the people. From the very first, however, I believe to claim that I have felt that sooner or later this would be a question of the first magnitude.

In all governments of consent it is the first duty of statesmanship to bring the government as close to the people as possible. The government of a self-governing people sustains an inseparable relation to the popular interests of the people. The legislation is sought with reference to the objects which call for it. Proper legislation for any people is that which is naturally adapted to specific conditions. Governments of force may maintain their authority over a wide territorial area embracing a great variety of climates, soils and productions, but governments of consent cannot so easily do this. Physical peculiarities are the basis of the political conditions, and those industries constitute the great material interests of the people. Thus, the climate and climatic differences result in the production of different crops. The sections of any widely extended area sought to be brought under the regulation of a single government, have so much to be said in favor of the division of the State into smaller political units, that the division of the State into smaller political units is a question of the first magnitude.

In the great office of government to provide for the general welfare, to promote the interests of the people, and to guarantee these conditions most favorable to the creation of wealth and the advancement of industry, and commerce, the division of the State into smaller political units is a question of the first magnitude.

The announcement made a few days ago of the latest improved perfecting presses, capable of printing, cutting, pasting and folding four, six, eight or twelve-page papers at one operation, and with a speed of 20,000 per hour, has led our enterprising of the newspaper business in Sacramento, which will be found interesting:

There is no better thermometer of the progress of a people or community than the advance of its press. While it has been in Sacramento that much money has been drawn from barter and trade, and the rates of wages have been higher than elsewhere,

Stanley, the Great Explorer, Captured by Cupid.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY AT OUTS.

Fearful Powder Explosion at Havana—Thirty-Four Lives Reported Lost.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.)

STANLEY CAPTURED.

The Great Explorer Falls a Victim to Cupid's Darts.

LONDON, May 18th.—Stanley has made a new and rapid conquest, a marriage having been arranged between him and Miss Dorothy Tennant. The lady is well known, not only in society, but to the world at large as a clever artist. She has for some years past been almost a protégée of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, and has been nearly four and a half years at her side. From the first day he was presented to her, Stanley was captivated by her charms. From the first day he was presented to her, Stanley was captivated by her charms. From the first day he was presented to her, Stanley was captivated by her charms.

It will no doubt be news to the public of this country and America to hear that three days before Stanley departed upon his perilous mission to find Emin Pasha he was betrothed to Miss Dorothy Tennant, who is the daughter of the late Lord Tennant. The Baroness Burdett-Coutts and some half dozen near friends were informed of the engagement, but were sworn to the strictest secrecy until such time as the lovers should deem fit to make their engagement public. How well these friends were kept their secret, they may be judged from the fact that nearly four years have passed and not one word has escaped their lips.

During the years that Stanley has been absent from home in Africa Miss Tennant and her lover have been widely discussed as to the difficulties of postal arrangements would permit. Each mail that has brought letters from the explorer and the Emin Pasha Relief Committee has also contained a lengthy budget to Stanley's lady love in Richmond Terrace. It is newly stated that Stanley is in the quietest of his life, and that he is now waiting for his country to be proclaimed as a sovereign state. Stanley is now waiting for his country to be proclaimed as a sovereign state.

Even the closest friends of Stanley never dreamed he carried this romance in his heart through the darkest Africa.
